

Report Writing.

① Ragging in Educational Institutes

② Manipur Incident

③ Train accidents.

Ragging.

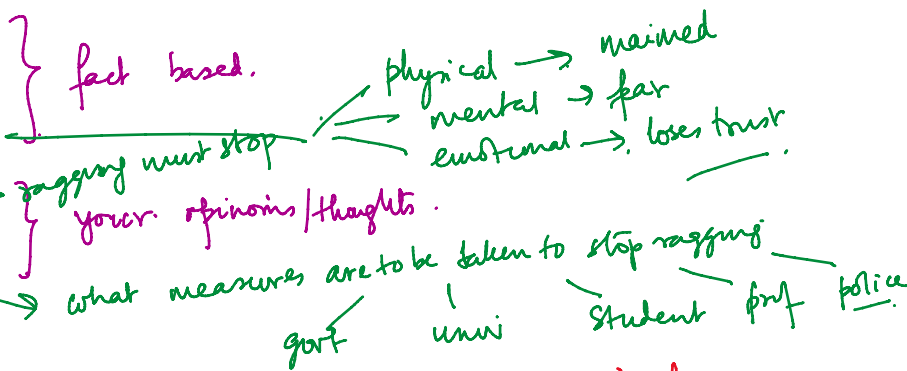

→ ① Topic introduction

→ ② Details of the topic.

→ ③ Impacts - social / economic

④ Inference / conclusions

→ ⑤ Probable actions / remedies

However, ragging in educational institutes is a malaise which has a deep and profound effect on the minds of the youth who are in their formative years.

Ragging has its roots in the socio-economic environment in which a child grows up. Many researchers have proved that the mentality / psyche to dominate others by brute force develops when a child experiences traumatic incidents in his/her childhood. In many cases of such reported incidents, investigations have proven this fact beyond an iota of doubt.

↓
(controversy)

Right from the childhood, most youths have a dream of a bright future through higher education from reputed institutes. When a youth steps into a college / university they come in contact with reality for the first time. He/she carries the impacts of his/her personal experiences in the formative years and sees the world through this ~~lens~~ lens. This is where the problem begins. Those who have been through bad experiences in their personal lives has the propensity to get their scores even by dominating others. This tendency is worsened if they face traumatic experiences in the initial days of their college life. Once he/she goes through this passing phase, he/she develops a strong urge to do the same to his/her juniors. This is how the cycle goes on year after year.

The forms of ragging ranges from body-shaming and verbal abuse to ~~attempts~~ there are strict laws against goes on year after year.

The forms of ragging ranges from body-shaming^{an} verbal abuse to sexual acts or sometime even worse. Although there are strict laws against any form of ragging, they are not ^{enforced} followed everywhere in ^{their} true spirits and with strict discipline. Such lacunae results in rampant flouting of anti-ragging norms by certain sections of students which in ~~less~~ turn leads to disastrous incidents.